Democratic Proposition to Terminate the Filibustering

It is Rejected and the Dead-lock Continues

Sherman Now Opposed to Compulsory Retirement.

THE [illegible]

WASHINGTON, May 26 — [illegible] for a compromise [illegible] dead-lock on the contested election case [illegible] Mackey vs Dibble were made in the [illegible] to-day. The democrats [illegible] the appointment of a committee to go to South Carolina [illegible] the charges [illegible] that Mackey had [illegible] tampered with [illegible] The republicans [illegible] the investigation [illegible] the [illegible] the committee was [illegible] At [illegible] caucus of republicans [illegible] which the [illegible] of continuing [illegible] the democrats [illegible] There was [illegible] feeling in favor of amending the rules to prevent further filibustering on the part of the democrats. The caucus adopted a resolution [illegible] consent to six hours debate on the merits of the pending issue at the end of which time a vote will be allowed on a motion to recommend the report [illegible] the case to the election committee. Of course such a motion will be lost and the democrats [illegible] then resume filibustering. Republican leaders say they are only anxious to lay all the facts in the case before the country to judge which party is right. There was a conference of republican members on the committee on rules [illegible] to one o'clock this morning, at which the propriety of amending the rules to prevent democrats filibustering was discussed. What conclusion was reached is not known but the [illegible] proposed amendment to the rules was seen on [illegible] providing that pending [illegible] consideration of any [illegible] legislation involving [illegible] high privilege the speaker [illegible] entertain one motion to adjourn [illegible] not [illegible] It is [illegible] will be [illegible] prior to disposition of the pending question. Some of the republicans doubt the expediency of an attempt in this way to arbitrarily amend the rules. Should it be attempted there would be a bitter fight. No settlement of the contest is looked for before the middle of next week.

COMPULSORY RETIREMENT

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The subcommittee of the appropriations committee has agreed to report favorably on the section of the army bill providing for compulsory retirement of officers arrived at the age of 62. General Sherman, who was at first in favor of the proposition has since opposed it. General Sherman will be retired on full pay if the report is adopted by congress.

ANOTHER [illegible]

[illegible] a vacancy before long [illegible] in the place of Judge Porter. Charges have been preferred against Porter, and they are believed to be sufficient to warrant his removal. It is rumored that the president contemplates the appointment of Rufus Andrews, a New York lawyer and [illegible] friend to Porter's place.

STAR ROUTE CASE

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The Star route [illegible] were present except [illegible] Chandler [illegible] motion to quash the [illegible] indictments [illegible] grounds that new indictments cover the same matter. Wilson for the defense stated that Jetton was ill and asked delay until to-morrow. The attorney general wished it understood that the intention of the government was to [illegible] whether the men have been justly or unjustly accused and to bring these cases promptly to an end. Wilson claimed the responsibility for the delay rested entirely with the government. The cases went over till [illegible]

REFUNDING CERTIFICATES

WASHINGTON, May 26 — A few ten dollar refunding certificates issued [illegible] convertible into four per cent bonds are still outstanding and the attorney general decides where accrued interest is in amount of fifty dollars [illegible] titled to receive bonds for the interest as well as the principal of their certificates. As no payment of interest is made on these certificates till they are converted, those still outstanding carry upwards of three years interest.

[illegible] TARIFF COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The Star says It is reported that five of the nine tariff commissioners have been agreed upon [illegible] Vice President Wheeler of New York, Alex Mitchell of Wisconsin the former democratic representative in congress, now president of the Chicago Milwaukee and St Paul railway, also John L Hayes of Massachusetts, formerly president of the National Woolen association, Henry W. Oliver of Pittsburg, a leading iron manufacturer, and R P Porter formerly in charge of the statistical bureau of the census department.

BLACKBURN'S RESOLUTION

Representative Blackburn on behalf of the minority submitted a resolution proposing that a special committee of [illegible] be appointed to [illegible] the charges of irregularity in [illegible] the [illegible] in the Mackey and [illegible] contested election case. Blackburn [illegible] resolution was intended as an [illegible] proceeding on the part of the minority to break the dead-lock. Calkins [illegible] opportunity to submit a counter proposition [illegible] that as chairman of the committee on elections he could not accept the proposition of the minority as it was a reflection on the report of the committee.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS

[illegible] Reported from the finance committee [illegible] the [illegible] recommend [illegible] substitute for the house bond [illegible] He said the amended bill now [illegible] modifications which had been [illegible] the treasury [illegible] bonds to be given [illegible] using period and provision [illegible] regulations as to spirits [illegible] apples and peaches. Ordered [illegible] substitute for the house bill [illegible] Bayard will probably call it [illegible] next week.

[illegible] said that the immediate disposal of the [illegible] indemnity bill was desired. He would not act on upon the bill for a territorial government for southeastern Alaska, [illegible] showing urgency of prompt action. He [illegible] and had read sundry [illegible] showing lawlessness among [illegible]

Consideration of the Japanese indemnity fund bill was resumed.

Saunders of Nebraska moved an amendment to pay George S. Fisher, consul at Kanagawa $1,000 for losses in consequence of forcible ejection from his residence and destruction of his property.

Jones of Florida offered an amendment providing that before any payment of money be authorized by the bill the president shall communicate to the governments of Great Britain, France and the Netherlands the request of this government for their co-operation in making full restitution to Japan.

Without action on the bill or amendments the senate adjourned till Monday.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Ex-Secretary Hunt minister to Russia and family left this afternoon for St Petersburg.

Hon Russell Errett of Pennsylvania was severely injured by being thrown from his carriage to-day.

The Blackburn resolution introduced in the house [illegible] the outcome of the conference of leading democrats.

Secretary Folger will to-morrow or Monday issue a call for fifteen millions of continued six per cent bonds to mature some time in August.

Wm Brockway and Chas H Smith were indicted to-day for having abstracted bond plates from the vaults of bureau of engraving and printing.

The committee on rules held a secret session [illegible] considered the dead lock. Members of both parties take an active part in the discussion.

The president gave an informal lunch to members of the cabinet to-day and left for New York. Attorney General Brewster accompanied him. Secretaries Folger and Lincoln join him in New York. On Monday the party review the parade for Decoration day, but will not attend the memorial exercises in the evening.

Congressman Page called upon Mr Williams, chairman of the foreign affairs committee [illegible] the committee to take prompt action on the bill to construct the Nicaragua canal. Mr Williams promised that within the next ten days the canal bill should be considered and a report made as soon as possible.

Fast Mail Service

CHICAGO May 26 — Postmaster General Howe is now here. He says the money to expedite the mail specially appropriated by congress will probably be used to increase speed. He is here to hasten the fast train [illegible] New York [illegible] San Francisco. The chief question is now whether it shall leave New York in the morning or evening. Opinion differs on this point. The interests of New York and Chicago seem to clash in regard to the time, which will probably result in both a morning and an evening train. He also thinks there should be faster time between New England and the south, with New Orleans or some other southern city as a distributing point. He expects hearty co-operation from railroad officials.

CHICAGO May 26 — Officials of the Illinois Central Rock Island & Pacific, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul railroads and postoffice officials held a conference to-day on the subject of fast mail. The general drift of the talk was in the direction of a train between New York and Chicago in 25 hours, Chicago and Omaha in 14 hours, other points in proportion, making the saving of time in hours between New York and the points named as follows: Chicago 8, Omaha 21, Cheyenne 29, Denver [illegible] Salt Lake [illegible], San Francisco, 29. The train between New York and Chicago to be exclusively a mail train [illegible] farther west to carry passengers. It is discovered that the pool of three lines between Chicago and Omaha might operate against a fast train in that direction, as the line chosen would thus be advertised and would get a majority of the business. Another conference will be held to-morrow or Monday.

Pennsylvania Politics

PHILADELPHIA, May 26 — Senator Cameron has been receiving political callers at his hotel all day, talking over the political situation. The senator declared there should be no compromise or fusion with the independents, but the republicans should exert all their strength against the ticket nominated Wednesday last as well as the democratic ticket. The question whether the vacancy on the ticket caused by Marshal's declination of the nomination as congressman at large shall be filled by the state committee or by another convention has not yet been decided.

Denver Dots

DENVER May 26 — The police raided an opium den last night and made some arrests.

The Pueblo Chieftain says The Grant Smelting works will not be rebuilt at Leadville, but will be located at Pueblo.

The appropriation for the reform school at Golden has been exhausted. Now the question with the governor and his advisors is whether the school will not have to be closed.

The case of the Adams express company against the Rio Grande railroad company for right to do business over the entire line of the road will come up for final hearing in the U S court next week.

William Hickey ex-chief of police of this city, will be arraigned in the county court on Saturday on the charge of insanity. It is said that Mr Hickey is incapable of caring for his property. His brother makes complaint.

The Denver and New Orleans railroad has filed a suit in the United States circuit court against the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe company to compel the latter to join hands with the formation of all matters pertaining to the transportation of passengers and freight. This seems to be an effort to break the pool.

No particulars of the Watkins mystery are obtainable. This morning a brother of Miss Zeo received a telegram from his father, saying the girl had not been found. Despite this dispatch it is the opinion of authorities in Denver that the girl has been discovered and will be returned to her home before many days.

The suit of the New Orleans railroad against the Santa Fe mentioned in these dispaches this morning is simply to compel the latter company to turn over freight consigned via the D & N O on the same terms as freight is turned over to other roads, notably the D & R G. D & N O men say they want no favors but justice. It is declared that the A T & S F refuse to give the D & N O its share of freight charges on through shipments.

DENVER, May 26 — Herman Wulsten, seventeen years old, a pupil at the Brinker Military institute of this city, was shot and killed by a schoolmate of the same age named W A Watson this afternoon. The boys were frolicking in the play room when Watson snapped one of the drill muskets stacked in the play room at his playmate. The gun contained a charge of small shot. It is thought to have been placed there by the janitor, who had been duck shooting several times lately. The top of Wulsten's head was literally blown off. Wulsten's home is at Rosita, Colorado. Watson's is at Gothic in this state.

The sale of a herd of sixty four head of short horn cattle belonging to the estate of D Selson at London, Ohio, attracted a large number of buyers. The cattle averaged $500 per head.

The Holland bank, of Grundy county, Iowa, F S Rice president, has failed for $20,000. It will pay about twenty cents on the dollar. The creditors are mainly eastern. A reckless cashier was the cause.

Leading distillers of the country are in session at the Grand Pacific, Chicago, trying to agree upon a scheme for reviving the western export association, to fix a remunerative price for high wines and to prevent disastrous cutting of rates. A committee appointed for the purpose made a report this morning, which was discussed at length, and pending a vote upon its adoption the meeting adjourned.

Musical Matinee

CHICAGO, May 26 — The second matinee of the May musical festival drew out five thousand people. The time was largely given to the orchestra, which played seven numbers. Campanini again bore off the vocal honors. Cary is still unable to appear. Eight thousand five hundred people were present in the evening. Bach's cantata was the principal feature of the first part of the programme, and the last half was Beethoven's symphony in D minor, which was grandly rendered.

An Incredible Story.

PHILADELPHIA, May 26 — When the steamship British King arrived in port last Monday a statement was made that an English steerage passenger evidently demented, had jumped overboard on the fourth day of the voyage and was lost. Patrick Foy, of county Sligo, Ireland, was also one of the steerage passengers and reported to the British consul, Clipperton, this evening that he heard the man say as he leaped in the sea "I am the man who killed Cavendish." Foy is positive in his statement as to the suicide's words and says he was standing close to him when he uttered them.

Presbyterian Assemblies

SPRINGFIELD, Ill, May 26 — The Presbyterians this morning adopted the following reply to the dispatch of the Atlanta Southern Presbyterian assemblage. The moderator is instructed to telegraph the moderator of the general assembly in session at Atlanta, that his telegram was received with warm enthusiasm by this assembly and in future to remove all difficulty in the way we adopt the following: While receding from no principle we do hereby declare our regret for and withdrawal of all expressions of our assembly which may be regarded as reflecting upon and offensive to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States and we renew the expression of our warm regard for all who compose its commission and our readiness to exchange delegates forthwith.

LEADVILLE

The Late Fires Reorganized Fire Department — Hasty Action of the Council

LEADVILLE May 25 1882 — The occurrence of two extensive fires within a week and the substitution by the city council of a small paid fire department for the large and remarkably efficient volunteer department which has repeatedly stood as a trusted bulwark of protection against threatened destruction of the city were events of such an unusual character and of such serious importance to the welfare of the city as to create an excitement among the people of Leadville only equalled by that attending the strike of two years ago.

The great fire of the 19th in which poor Ballou lost his life was unquestionably the work of incendiaries. The character and position of the buildings consumed rendered a large conflagration inevitable but that it should be confined as it was to the block where it originated seemed almost a miracle. Only heroic work by a most efficient and enthusiastic fire department could have secured such a remarkable result. There can be no over praise of such work. Nor was this an exceptional instance. The Leadville volunteer department has been frequently tried and never found wanting. Such a record is something for the city to be proud of.

The smoke had scarcely cleared away from this last battlefield of the volunteers when the citizens of Leadville were startled with the announcement that the council had disbanded the several companies and substituted a paid department of eighteen men. The immediate cause for this action was discreditable to the good sense of both firemen and council. On the night of the fire a member of the council puffed up with small-souled importance — robust of body, but feeble of mind — undertook the exercise of illegitimate authority in a brutal and unmanly way, by assaulting a fireman who disputed his authority, but was obeying the orders of the chief. The firemen were naturally indignant but instead of properly treating the alderman as a private citizen and securing his punishment through the law, they assumed that he embodied within his sacred person all the sanctity and authority of the city government. They made certain categorical demands in a communication to the council concerning the affair, which that body should have quietly laid under the table, since they [illegible] in no sense responsible for the occurrence and would have maintained their dignity by paying no attention to the ill advised and hasty action of the firemen. But they were not content to do this. It would have been a most gracious and dignified act for the council, upon the heels of the splendid achievement by the firemen, to have heartily thanked the department for its services and quietly ignored its improper action subsequent to the fire. On the contrary the council hastily as if in a fit of boyish temper, and without that deliberate thought and thorough consideration which should accompany such important action, disbanded the faithful organizations and substituted a small department under pay. Very naturally the voice of the people is against this hasty action. There is much injudicious talk and bad tempered discussion at present, but the storm will soon pass away and the paid department may prove efficient to protect the city in the future as the volunteers have in the past. At any rate, the boys did well last night, notwithstanding they had had no opportunity to get into working trim.

The destruction of the Grant smelter last night was purely accidental. Accumulated gas in one of the furnaces suddenly burst in flame through the tuyer holes on the sides, and, striking against a wooden partition close by, rolled quickly up to the ceiling and through a ventilator to the roof. The flames spread so rapidly that no human power could have stopped them. The fire was kept from coal bins and the destruction was confined to the immense plant and its protecting buildings. The furnaces can be repaired and the boilers are uninjured. All else will have to be rebuilt. Messrs Grant, Eddy & James are not the men to be disheartened by their loss. Early this morning the work of clearing away the ruins was begun and a new plant will be in place as soon as it can be secured. The firm will continue to receive ore on their contracts. The loss is quite heavy on the firm, and the bullion product of the camp will be considerably lessened for the time being, still the prosperity of the camp will not be seriously affected.

J L LOOMIS.

INDIGNATION.

Recent Action of the Council Universally Condemned.

What Some of the Property Owners Have to Say.

Accusations of Undue Influence and Misrepresentations.

It was with much surprise that many of our citizens having the best interests of the city at heart noticed for the first time through the columns of the GAZETTE yesterday morning that the right of way through two of our important thoroughfares had been granted the Denver & New Orleans railroad by a unanimous vote of the city council. Included in the right was virtually the privilege of entering the hotel grounds and condemning, should it choose to do so, the tract of valuable private land extending from Huerfano street on the south to Colorado college on the north. The granting of such a right had been intimated at and talked of by a few on the streets for the past week or two but that a matter of such vital importance was to be disposed of in such a hasty quiet manner by the city council was not thought of. Many who entertained the utmost good will toward the Denver and New Orleans company and who anxiously look for and will gladly welcome its entrance into the city were interviewed by a GAZETTE reporter yesterday and the manifestations of disapproval at the action of the council were almost unanimous.

One gentleman who has taken an active interest in the welfare of the D & N O, and who has talked not a little with Mr Lowrie, the chief engineer of the road as to the most practicable route to enter the city was approached on the subject. He said he was greatly surprised at the action of the council and considered that the rights of the people on Moreno avenue and Sahwatch street had been unjustly trampled upon. Had the granting of the right been necessitated in consequence of there being no other route, then there would be some excuse but, with a stretch of unoccupied land lying only two blocks south of the proposed route which could have been readily acquired there is none. Mr Lowrie was driven over this route and pronounced it as suitable as the one through Moreno avenue with the exception that it would necessitate the construction of an additional curve. What I consider as the worst blunder,' said the gentleman 'is allowing the road to cross Huerfano street, and the people should demand that the council so amend the ordinance as to keep the road south of Huerfano.

Numerous others who were inclined to favor the route as granted were universally opposed to the Huerfano street crossing, advancing as a reason that it was entirely unnecessary.

Naturally the most indignant persons are those living on Moreno and Sahwatch streets, through which the road proposes running. Yesterday afternoon Mr J H Lunn, one of the heaviest property owners on Moreno avenue, and a business partner of his honor, the mayor, was asked by a GAZETTE reporter [illegible] how he was pleased with the Denver and New Orleans right of way.

"Don't speak of it" said he. "I have been so exasperated over it that I ought not to converse on the subject. I came here only a short time ago, bought a lot in what I supposed to be a quiet and retired locality, had just finished a house and was thinking what a nice home I would have when the council gives a railroad authority to pass my very threshold. What could be more aggravating? As it is my property has cost me $3,500 and I do not to-day consider it worth fifty cents on the dollar. Had I any recourse against either the road or city for damages I would not complain, but under the circumstances I cannot recover a cent. I do not want to be looked upon as opposed to the coming of the D & N O road. To the contrary, I would subscribe money to have it come. I was one of a number who offered to aid in paying for a right of way if the road would run two blocks farther south. What hurts us most is that the remonstrance presented by some of the residents on Moreno street was ignored entirely by the city council, while the other petitions, to which the signatures had been obtained by undue influence and misrepresentations, were favored. Mr Lowrie stated at the council meeting that a route most acceptable to the people had been selected. Who are these people that were satisfied with the route? Surely not residents of Moreno avenue. I know to a certainty that the petitions favoring the Moreno avenue route were circulated by such men as John Hinebaugh, A L Lawton, Dr Kimball and others, who have not a dollar's worth of property at stake. I know a number who signed the petition in favor of the route who would willingly reconsider how had they an opportunity. The D & N O road could not have, under any circumstances, secured the favor of a majority of the property owners on the street had not its own agents purchased sufficient property by which to control it. Among the signers to the petitions favoring the route are several ladies who were approached by emissaries of the D & N O, in the guise of personal friends, and given glowing accounts of how their property would be enhanced in value by the erection of shops, etc."

Mr J F Miller, another leading property owner, was talked with by the reporter. He entertained about the same feeling, and corroborated many of the statements made by Mr Lunn. He is authority for the statement that Mr Lowrie represented that they merely wanted the right of way through Moreno avenue to show the Colorado Springs company that they could get it, and not to use it. Then they could prevail upon the Colorado Springs company to let them have the right of way through their property two blocks further south.

There is no enterprise of more importance to the interests of Colorado Springs than the new hotel now in the course of construction and soon to be completed, and nothing has happened since the project was started that has given more cause for alarm than the recent action of the council. Two of the directors said to a reporter of the GAZETTE yesterday that the running of a line of railroad through the grounds to the west of it, which it was proposed to lay out as a park, could not help but result disastrously to the enterprise. They like many others think that the people cannot consistently allow so important an undertaking be thus imperilled by an uncalled for and hasty action of the council. The man who takes the hotel will be obliged to make an outlay of some $20,000 in furnishing it, and it is necessary the hotel should have pleasant grounds, &c., to secure such a man. A railroad through the experimental garden will certainly injure the hotel and lessen our chance of letting it to a good man. Two members of the council with whom the GAZETTE representative talked realized that in allowing the D & N O to cross Huerfano street they had opened a way into the experimental garden but they said that this could be remedied by plating out the park and laying out a street running from the hotel to the depot thus necessitating the granting of an additional right of way. They considered the verbal agreement of Mr Lowrie not to cross the experimental garden was to be relied upon.

It is the intention of the GAZETTE to interview to-morrow the signers of the petition favoring the right of way through Moreno avenue and Sahwatch street, with a view to ascertaining how they came to sign it, and what influences prompted them to do so.

Railroad Notes

CHICAGO May 26 — At a meeting of the Chicago and Omaha roads to-day, it was agreed to pool all business destined to western points on the Union Pacific, Burlington & Missouri and Blair roads. This action is made necessary because of recent disturbance in rates to Lincoln and other large points in the interior of Nebraska.

Dispatches have been received at the headquarters of the Burlington company announcing the completion of the Denver extension. It is stated that on Wednesday three miles and 500 feet of track was laid, fully spiked and tied in nine hours. The first train of Denver freight over the new line left yesterday. There is a rumor here that the opening of the Denver line may be followed by brisk cutting in Colorado business.

The government commission of inquiry into the encroachments of the Illinois Central railway met and began hearing of testimony today.

DALLAS, Texas, May 16 — It is reported in railroad circles that the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe railway has purchased the Chicago, Texas & Mexican road for $10,000 a mile.

"My Policy" and "My Party."

NEW YORK, May 26 — The Times says of the recent appointments "If the president imagines that to stand well with the country it is necessary to appear as the author of 'My Policy' or the champion of 'My Party,' we think he has made a serious mistake. If his policy is to turn one set of men out of office and put another in, merely to satisfy the demands of personal adherents. If his party is to consist solely of Arthur men, as distinguished from those who are only republicans, then he will show that the blunders of his predecessors, who reached the place of chief magistrate by vice presidential succession have yielded him neither instruction nor warning.

Fire at Tombstone

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26 — A Tombstone dispatch says that a fire this afternoon destroyed a large number of buildings there, and a portion of the town was destroyed comprising almost the entire business part of the place. The three principal hotels were burned, and the office of the Daily Nugget destroyed. The Western Union telegraph office was also destroyed. It is impossible to estimate the loss accurately at present. It will probably reach $500,000. The insurance will aggregate $250,000.

Mysterious Murder

CHICAGO, May 26 — At Highwood, a northern suburb, this morning, the house of a man named McCarthy was discovered to be burned and his body found in the ashes. Indications point to murder. The object is supposed to have been money that he received recently from stock sales. Nobody knew of the affair until daylight when the smoking ruins attracted attention and the charred remains were found. A posse of citizens is scouring the country around, and every effort is being made to overtake the murderers.

Force in Egypt

LONDON, May 26 — In the commons Sir Wilfred Lawson, radical, protesting against a liberal government upholding the integrity of the Ottoman empire, and asking a pledge that force shall not be employed in Egypt. Gladstone stated that it was impossible to give such a pledge, but there is nothing at present to make it likely that force will be necessary.

Cameron Conference

PHILADELPHIA, May 26 — It is understood Senator Cameron will have a conference with Chairman Cooper and other political leaders to-morrow, in regard to the party split.

Mr Lowrie was very happy yesterday. He is in the employ of the Denver & New Orleans and it was his duty to get every advantage possible in entering the city. It remains for the Gazette to inform a puzzled public how a railroad can come into the city without going through any of the streets. The proposition is absurd and we leave our contemporary to pound away on the argument.—Republic.

This is an easy one. The Denver and Rio Grande does not go through any of our streets. The Denver and New Orleans could go down the valley east of the city and have its station in a central position on that side, or it could have struck the Denver and Rio Grande track near Mt. Washington and run parallel around the city and put its station on the west side.

Our statement that the Denver & New Orleans intended to run its Manitou line across the experimental garden and so prevent the letting of it out as a park for the hotel is correct according to the organ of the Denver & New Orleans. Several members of the council state that they did not understand this was intended but nevertheless they passed an ordinance giving the road the right to do this if it is the city had any power. The Republic thus officially gives the plans of Mr Lowrie in respect to this.

So far as is concerned the out [illegible] which has been dignified by the name of experimental garden we have not yet heard that it is sacred ground. If in the future it is found to ... The simple question is ... necessary to grant a right of way through our streets when the situation of the city is exceptionally good for the entrance of a road without passing through or crossing a street. Certainly it required no wonderful engineering for this or costly grading. Had it been necessary to cut through the city, then the council would have perhaps been justified in letting the Denver & New Orleans go through our streets. But was this necessary? And if it was necessary was it necessary to imperil the success of our new hotel by making it possible for the road to go through its grounds?

D W Robbins mayor, H A Wilson, I D Coombs, I F Wheeler, Ainsworth Brown, H I Crowell, J. W. Anderson, F A Himebaugh, A I Downing aldermen, and John Campbell city attorney—these are the men who held a clandestine session of the city council on Thursday evening, May 26th 1883—according to the Colorado Springs Gazette of May 28th.—[Republic.

We submit to our readers whether this meeting was not fairly called clandestine. How many of you knew there was to be a meeting, or what it was proposed to do? For the consideration of a subject of such importance there should have been some notice that such a meeting was to be held, so that the parties interested could be present. It was ... to notify the property holders on Moreno avenue and Sahwatch street, the hotel directors, and the public generally ... of a New Orleans ... and attorney. The council ... listened ... Mr Lowrie was not the only person interested in this matter. The citizens of this city were interested as well and had a right to be heard. The only persons who took part in the proceedings outside of the council were the chief engineer of the Denver and New Orleans and Mr Campbell, who represented the Denver and New Orleans or Colorado Springs just as you look at it. The meeting was not called until the day it was held. There was no need of such a rush as Mr Lowrie through his official organ says that no orders to construct the ... have been issued. The meeting could have been held last night and public notice given of the special meeting in the papers yesterday, with the subject to be considered. We have no hesitation in saying the meeting was a put up job. We don't say that all parties mentioned above were in the conspiracy. Some were ... of cattle on ... think otherwise when important rights were given away and only the engineer of the Denver & New Orleans ... was invited to be present.

Mr Hobacker in the Denver Tribune is ... dramatic critic in the state ... This is the opinion ... of Mr Barrett's ... interpretation of Hamlet in the opera house in Denver last week:

There are Hamlets and Hamlets. Almost everyone with literary intelligence has a distinct idea of what the character was meant to be and how it ought to be played. Passages which probably dropped from the author's pen with very little thought in the rapidity of composition that must have been his habit have been the subject of the most refined hair splitting, and the commentators and editors have struggled hard to drag genious and original meanings out of lines which are just as well as they are. So it has always happened that there have been discussions over Hamlet, and people have formed their ideas of the excellencies of different actors largely from the similarity of reading which one might show to their own conception of the part. Davenport used to play a refined Hamlet. Forrest played a robust Hamlet. Murdock played an elocutionary Hamlet. Adams played a melodramatic Hamlet. Booth plays a graceful Hamlet. Barrett plays an intense Hamlet. In the traditions of the play which are the property of no single actor but the common right of the profession there is of course a general resemblance but each has his distinct characteristics and his own ways of treating disputed points. It is with Barrett's Hamlet we are dealing now. It is a better one this season than ever it was before. Study and work have mellowed it greatly. There is very little experimentalism in it now. It has passed from the primary stages and is almost a rounded whole. There is some complaint by people whose inclinations rather lean to Buffalo-Bill's school of drama that it is too sombre and monotonous but Hamlet is not expected to lighten the play. The dramatist has supplied the foils for this purpose and so the criticism goes for very little. The main necessities are an intelligent understanding of the drama and a dramatic expression of the understanding. Mr Barrett has one and succeeds in giving us the other. His Hamlet grows in art every year. It is a gentler and a more poetic Hamlet than it was during his last engagement here, yet it has lost nothing in force. Indeed it has gained. There is more strength and less of the imitation of strength. He is intense and repressive where he was formerly declamatory, and the change is a good one. The performance was heartily enjoyed.

Miss Wainwright's Ophelia was tender and pretty. Her rendering of the mad scene was most excellent, and deserved the kindly applause with which it was greeted.

City Attorney Campbell is brought to the whipping post by the Gazette for a failure to conserve the interests of the city in the matter of granting the right of way into the city to the Denver and New Orleans railroad. As usual the Gazette has confounded the interests of the city with those of the Rio Grande—a very natural result under the circumstances.—[Republic.

Mr Campbell is unfortunate in having so weak a defense. The Republic makes a very serious confession, as we only stated one or two facts about Mr Campbell and drew no inferences. We simply stated that Mr Campbell was present at the council meeting in the double capacity of city attorney and local attorney of the Denver and New Orleans road. If making this statement is bringing Mr Campbell to the whipping post, then the Republic, if it wished to defend him should have shown that he did not act in this double capacity. The Republic continues things by bringing up the Denver and Rio Grande. It has nothing to do with the Denver and Rio Grande road. Mr Campbell is not counsel for the Denver and Rio Grande. The Denver and Rio Grande was not represented by counsel in the matter in any way. The simple facts is that Mr Campbell has a salary as attorney of the city and is also local attorney of the Denver and New Orleans. The question is could he honorably occupy both offices at once when both clients were supposed to be driving as sharp a bargain as possible with each other. Had we wished to do what the Republic charges we should not have contented ourselves with the simple statement of fact. We should have said "no counsel or attorney could have honorably occupied the two positions at the same time. As attorney of the city he was in honor bound to use every means to protect the city in all its rights and give as few privileges as possible, as these privileges are of value and are given at some sacrifice to private if not public interests. As counsel of the Denver & New Orleans he was in honor bound to get every possible advantage and privilege for his corporation without regard to the public weal or private interests as these were to be protected by a city council advised by a city attorney. In one capacity it was to grant as little as possible, and in the other to get all that he could. He was to be selfish for the city on the one hand and selfish for the Denver and New Orleans on the other. He was paid by each to be a partisan and not a referee. We would say these two offices were incompatible and he could not honorably fill them both and do justice to both. The interests hoped for the moment opposed, as in case of any two parties making a bargain. As counsel for the Denver and New Orleans Mr Campbell found out what rights and privileges were desired and drew up an ordinance covering all that his client desired. As attorney of Colorado Springs, when requested to draw up an ordinance he drew out of his pocket the ordinance which he had prepared as local attorney of the Denver and New Orleans road, and advised its passage as attorney of the city of Colorado Springs?" Now, had we wished to bring Mr Campbell to the whipping post, we should have said something like the above. But we confined ourselves to simple statement of fact. Lest what we have said above should be misunderstood we will add that it does not appear that Mr Campbell acted in any way dishonorably toward the Denver and New Orleans. He seems to have discharged his trust to his client with commendable zeal and singular success and has earned the fee which a reasonable lawyer like Mr Campbell would charge. As attorney of the city of Colorado Springs he has acted well.

A Pleasant Picture

New Orleans Times

It would have been a picture for remembrance if one could have taken a peep into Mr George W Cable's study in his cozy cottage on Eighth street on last Monday afternoon. Grouped together in the room, with the balmy south wind coming in through the many open windows laden with the perfume of musky roses blooming all about, were Mr Samuel L Clemens (Mark Twain), Mr Joel Chandler Harris (Uncle Remus), Mr James ... and the author of "Old Creole Days" and "Madame Delphine." In the room, also were Mr Cable's little flock of sweet faced girls and children of his artist sister. The younger ones with childhood's wondrous tuition ... about "Uncle Remus's" knees, while the babe of three years old crawled up and found closer lodgment in his lap. Were ever any children in the land in better form to beg for stories? And they did not have to plead very long either before Mark Twain was reading for them as perhaps no one else can read, some of Uncle Remus's stories, saving for the climax that one dearest to the heart of every southern born child, the inimitable story of "Brer Rabbit and the Tar Baby."

The Chinese question has settled itself in St Paul. There were fourteen Chinamen in the city doing laundry work, and one day another one arrived. The fourteen called a meeting and decided that fourteen was all that St Paul could stand and they notified the new comer that if he went away from St Paul on the first train he was liable to continue to enjoy very fair health, but if he remained over night he would be subject to malarial influences that could no help breaking down his constitution. The new arrival could see that there was an earnest desire on their part for him to go, the more so as they put their hands on the handles of knives and seemed to look wild, like Guiteau, so he went right down to the train and vamoosed. Then the Chinamen said, striking their breasts with clenched fists, "Chinaman heap cully, allee samee vigillance committee."

CROWLEY'S IDENTITY

No Longer Any Doubt But That the Body Found is That of J. A. Crowley

Mr. [illegible] answer to his letter with [illegible] A. Mellier, the St. Louis druggist [illegible] concerning the prescriptions found on the body [illegible] Mr. Mellier [illegible] prescription [illegible] entire [illegible] in this store [illegible] No. [illegible] from his books. The prescription [illegible] on December [illegible] 1881.

The other prescription, No. [illegible] was given by Dr. [illegible] and was put up [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the body [illegible] J. A. Crowley [illegible] D. W. Crowley [illegible]

[illegible]

The chain of evidence as set forth is too conclusive to be considered a mere coincidence, and no doubt existed in the minds of those acquainted with the facts yesterday that the deceased and J. A. Crowley were the same. Some speculation was indulged in as to the mode of death. The physicians both say that death was not imminent from disease. The marks upon his clothing had been cut out with a knife, and in his pockets, beside the before mentioned prescriptions was found $13 and a ticket, showing that he had passed over the Denver and Rio Grande in March 23, from Pueblo to Colorado Springs. He was also extraordinarily well clad. These facts give weight to the opinion that the man had committed suicide, although it was said the small amount of money might have been left with him to defray the burial expenses should his body be found or in order to divert suspicion from anyone who might have been suspected of killing him for gain.

I have all the new goods that my competitors are advertising to sell at cost or discount 33⅓ per cent on marked prices. The old dodge selling at cost is played out. No merchant is going to sell a new stock of goods at the opening of the season at cost, and the merchant who can sell goods at 33⅓ per cent discount either had them marked too high in the first place or marked them up for the occasion. I am not excited because Weatherby or Monk & Ingalsbe are closing out but am glad to see it as we have too many dry goods stores here and I wish them success while they are doing it. I expect to pursue the even tenor of my way, not sell goods at cost unless they are damaged, nor at a discount of 33⅓ per cent, but will sell them as cheap if not cheaper than my competitors who try to gull the trade by such flaming ads. Come and see for yourself before buying.

Lawrence Barrett at the opera house this afternoon and evening.

Lawrence Barrett at the opera house both afternoon and evening. "David Garrick" will be produced at the matinee and "Hamlet" in the evening.

Messrs J C Temple, of the Vandalia line and F B Semple of the Union Pacific were in the city yesterday on business pertaining to their respective lines.

The members of the Jackson Hose company complain that the ropes guarding their running track on Nevada avenue have been stolen. Some one must be very hard up.

The Manitou school closed yesterday for the summer. All of the scholars have made marked progress in their studies under the capable tuition of the Misses Darrow.

Those who have never seen Lawrence Barrett and cannot secure good seats for to-night should witness his presentation of "David Garrick," at the matinee this afternoon.

County Superintendent Eaton was engaged yesterday in examining applicants for teachers' certificates. The number of applicants was much smaller than usual, there being only three.

Prof Cornell, state superintendent of schools, will give a free lecture in the high school building tonight on "Our Schools and School Work." This lecture is highly spoken of by the press of the various towns of the state, where it has been delivered by Prof Cornell. Some vocal and instrumental music will be furnished by the older scholars of the school.

Should the weather permit the Jackson Hose handicap races will take place this afternoon on the new association running track at the ball grounds. After the running is finished a game of ball will be played between two nines composed of the best ball players in the city. An admission fee of twenty five cents will be charged all those not members of the association. The runners and ball players are also excepted.

One of the busiest places in the city is J G Warner's planing mill. He has a large force of men at work and is hardly able to turn out all the work that is brought to him. Mr Warner is now manufacturing mouldings, flooring, siding, etc out of Colorado lumber that compare favorably with those shipped here from the east. A manufactory of this kind has long been needed in Colorado Springs and we are glad to see it receiving the support of our people.

The new machine introduced by Messrs Brewster & Helm for the manufacture of brick, is working like a charm. We visited their place of business on Shook's Run yesterday and were shown by the proprietors how satisfactorily the new process was working. On account of the recent rainy weather the bricks that they are now turning out are not as smooth as they expect to make. They however seem preferable to the hand made brick. As was stated the other day, the first [illegible] the [illegible] and builders will soon be able to judge for themselves as to their quality.

Charles Durkee returned from Denver yesterday, where he went for the purpose of finding, if possible, other of the jewelry recently stolen from his residence. He was rewarded for the trouble taken by finding in and recovering from one of the pawn shops there the gold watch and diamond pin stolen from his house on the 14th inst. The pawn broker, who was evidently an innocent man in the matter at first declined to give them up but afterward changed his mind knowing as he did that they could easily be recovered through law by Mr Durkee. It is presumed that they were stolen by the two men, Harding and Mc[illegible], now in the county jail awaiting trial before the district court.

Soon after the inquest held over the body of the woman discovered in the outhouse some weeks ago, Mayor Robbins sent the photograph found in her trunk together with the account of the inquest published in the GAZETTE to Messrs M & W Garrett, the artists who took the picture, asking them whether they could furnish any information that would establish the identity of the woman found. Mayor Robbins yesterday received a response to this letter saying that the photograph was of a lady, Miss Layton, formerly one of the faculty of the Wesleyan Female college, at Wilmington. The writer says that two or three years ago she went as a missionary to India, but whether she is still there is not known. A person who is well acquainted with Miss Layton has been written to and further information will be furnished as soon as possible.

Mr Garrett says that he has furnished many dozens of the pictures of Miss Layton to a party in Boston who sells them for the missionary cause one of which may have been purchased by the deceased. Mr. Garrett does not think that the writing on the back of the photo is that of Miss Layton, but of a party in Boston.

[From a private letter written by Mr M E Bidwell from Crested Butte to J P Ralston dated May 4th, we make the following extracts.]

I have just returned from Crystal Basin. Was at our "Greenback" mine yesterday. I traveled all the way from the lake at the head of [illegible] river on the snow from two to four feet deep. We cannot get to the mine with animals before about the 10th of June. The snow had blown off from our mine and I brought down forty or fifty pounds of ore from a place a short distance south of our assessment. There is an immense body of mineral there and it is literally full of antimonial silver. I broke it from large pieces just at the surface. Governor Carney has been working the Mammoth lode all winter. The "Lucky" is booming, they expect to put on a large force soon and about thirty pack animals, and will ship ore as soon as the roads are open. Work has begun, blasting is heard in every direction and it sounds quite lively. They are crossing over on the crust on hand sleds and snow shoes. The weather has been cold and spring backward. Lumber has been very scarce.

Improve the opportunity of seeing Lawrence Barrett one of the greatest tragedians on the stage.
